

	With classmates and colleagues from other cultures	With classmates and colleagues from your own cultural background
Speed of making decision	We think that with classmates and colleagues from other cultures, it may take a bit longer to come to the final decision. The reason for that is people from different cultural backgrounds might have a different perspective of a matter.	Classmates and colleagues from your own cultural background have the same way of thinking, therefore a decision could be made faster.
Comfortability in the meetings	At first people might feel a bit uncomfortable or shy when being in a meeting with people from other cultures. Different mother languages might cause a communication barrier. Different way of behaving or thinking might lead to misunderstandings However, when they get to know each other better, understand each other's culture, the level of comfortability during the meeting will be so much more increased.	Of course, being with people from our cultural background will always be more comfortable, as we speak the same language, behave the same way and misunderstanding is more or less avoided.
Quality of output	Quality of output might not be better but it is always great as the matter is approached from different viewpoints. Therefore the best solution can be found, although it may take a bit more time.	The matter is tackled more quickly and easily, however, the best solution might not be found.
